April 11, 2008... Dejavoo Systems announces the launch of the next generation of electronic point-of-sale payment solutions. These new terminals, boasting an unrivalled, secure connectivity, robustly feature a Linux-based open platform operating system.

Dejavoo Systems pioneers features which empower end-users with value-added options and updates at their fingertips. Dejavoo Operating Systems coupled with IP connectivity enables Merchants to enhance their business and increase their productivity. Setting up Merchants on smart gateways via IP, Dial up or Wireless expands connectivity to many more programs and services, rarely available in today's market. All merchant set ups are ready in seconds and easily enables the progression from Dial up to IP and even to wireless. ISOs are aware of the need to prepare their merchants for the inevitable IP future, through Ethernet or Wireless, to connect them through our various gateway options enabling network/processor independence, for increased value and advanced performance.

The Dejavoo vision is providing front end switches and gateways to increase the ISO's flexibility and proposition.
